

The Case for Legacy Giving to PJ Library

Reading books and learning together help families form strong Jewish bonds

The PJ Library program inspires young families to become more active within the community. PJ Library in Raleigh has received national attention for its growth and vibrancy, nourishing the neshamot (souls) of our children and their families. The goal is to enroll every child who would like to be in the program and perpetuate this program for years to come.

PJ Library drastically changes how young families engage Jewishly by providing:

- Welcoming and inclusive environments—a low-barrier entry point for non-practicing and inter-faith families
- Shared community to encourage social engagement through monthly books, CDs, live videos, podcasts, story times, and in person (and virtual) meet ups
- Moving and meaningful ways for families to appreciate and explore Jewish holidays and rituals

Through the Jewish Community Foundation, an arm of the Federation, you can fulfill your philanthropic vision alongside many other generous community members who have invested in our future. Your commitment can represent a transformational opportunity for our community... It is in your hands to write your own Jewish story, making your mark on Jewish history through acts of compassion and care.
